How we use your information and the legal bases for processing it

The legal bases for processing your information are that it is necessary:

- for a contract or to enter into a contract
- for purposes of legitimate interests
- to comply with a legal obligation

In some circumstances we may ask for your consent to process your personal information.

Entering into and fulfilling contracts, purposes include:

- Verifying identity
- Processing payments
- Communicating with you about the contract and the services
- Systems notifications
- Protecting and maintaining the security of our systems and the data, including through authentication, prevention, detection and investigation methods, audit logs and analysis of usage
- Providing training and support

- Complying with our obligations under our agreements with NHS Digital, as well as the requirements of the NHS Data Security and Protection Toolkit and our ISO 27001 certification, such as ensuring that only authorised users have access to the data we process

Purposes of legitimate interests include:

- Entering into and fulfilling contracts
- Processing payments
- Communicating with you about the contract and the services
- Providing additional information about the products and services we offer, including marketing communications
- Protecting and maintaining the security of our systems and the data, including through authentication, prevention, detection and investigation methods, audit logs and analysis of usage
- Providing training and support
- Complying with our obligations under our agreements with NHS Digital, as well as the requirements of the NHS Data Security and Protection Toolkit and our ISO 27001 certification, such as ensuring that only authorised users have access to the data we process
- Gathering feedback, customer testimonials and market research

Compliance with legal obligations

- Protecting the private, confidential and proprietary information of Telstra Health UK, its employees, its clients and third parties.
- Complying with data protection laws and responding to requests from individuals as data subjects or from the Information Commissioner’s Office (ICO) or other authorities.
- Responding to requests from law enforcement and national security agencies, and other government and regulatory authorities, as required or authorised by law and subject to safeguards and review.

Consent

We do not routinely rely on consent to process your information, however in some cases we may ask for your consent. Any consent that you provide must be freely given, for specific purposes, informed and clearly indicated. You have the right to refuse or withdraw your consent.

Information processed by third party organisations and where it is processed

In some cases, we may need to disclose your personal information to related entities, partners and other organisations, both within and outside the UK, for purposes related to the services we are providing to you. This will be the minimum data necessary to meet the purpose and, where possible, we will use anonymised or pseudonymised data.

In some cases we may need to transfer your information outside of the United Kingdom. We rely on one or more of the following mechanisms – standard contractual clauses, adequacy decisions, consent (in certain, limited circumstances). Companies processing data on our behalf include:

Organisation	Purpose	Processing locations
Adobe	Digital signatures and document verification through Adobe Sign.	USA, India, Republic of Ireland and in locations where apps are accessed.
MailChimp	Email marketing	US, with some sub-processing in Germany
Microsoft	Microsoft 365	UK and Australia

How long we keep your information

We keep your data as long as it is necessary for the purpose it was collected. Contracts are held in Adobe Sign until they have been agreed by all parties, they are then removed from that platform and stored within our internal contracts management system. Correspondence and usage data is retained as necessary throughout the contract to support our customers. Information relating to contracts and finance is generally kept for six years after the contract's end in line with standard practice and legislation including the Limitation Act 1980.
